DONALD CLAY JOHNSON

Presents:

South Asian Textiles: One Collector's Perspective

Donald Clay Johnson’s first trip to India was in 1966 and over the past 50 years he has collected more than 700 textiles from south Asia. Many of these textiles have been gifted to the University of Minnesota as a teaching collection. Johnson is the author of 7 books on textiles and dress. From 1987-2008, Johnson served as curator for the University of Minnesota’s Ames Library of South Asia.

This is a rare opportunity to learn from Johnson’s textile cultural and historical expertise.

March 30th
Morrill 2019
Iowa State University
6:00pm – 7:00pm

Sponsored in part by the Donna R. Danielson Professor in Textiles and Clothing